OBSTRUCTIVE UNIONISTS.

How They Propose to Defeat the Home Rule Bill.

WAITING FOR GLADSTONE'S DEATH.

Other Important Items of Old World News.

LONDON, July 17.—The home-rule bill will be got through the house of commons on or about August 21. Under ordinary circumstances a fortnight more would wind up the business of the session. The game of the unionists is, however, to protract the session, despite the heat and exhaustion, for weeks after the house of lords shall have rejected the bill. They intend to accomplish their purpose by means of endless meetings and divisions on the financial votes. They hope to reduce the government majority to the minimum and eventually to drive the ministry to a premature dissolution by their prolonged bawling and bullying. The mutiny of the Parnellites under John Redmond against the financial proposals will probably be subdued. The means, as usual, will be concessions from the government. The Parnellites will smother their opposition to the clauses in question in consideration of Mr. Gladstone promising to appoint a commission on the relations of Ireland to Great Britain. In the two series of divisions taken under the closure resolution on the home rule bill, Mr. Gladstone has been a figure of pathetic interest. He has remained at his post despite his painful weariness through both evenings, and has trudged faithfully into the lobby every time a clause was voted on. Last Thursday evening, in the crowded liberal lobby, he began talking with his nearest neighbor concerning the success of the government. After a few remarks he asked this neighbor for his name. The member replied: "John Burns, sir." Mr. Gladstone grasped the celebrated labor agitator as he said pathetically: "My sight is failing. Very often only the contour of the person and the tone of his voice enables me to recognize him."

The conversation turned on the strain to which the session subjected the members, and Mr. Burns remarked: "Hard work makes work, but at the same time makes one love it." "So I have felt," Mr. Gladstone answered, "and may you live many years to put that principle in practice. We both have been hard workers." The conversation was overheard by several members near Mr. Gladstone, and has been repeated in the tone of pathos which now characterizes so many of the liberal's utterances concerning their aged leader.

BERLIN, July 17.—Eastern affairs are again exciting anxiety in the German foreign office. Reports from St. Petersburg state the Russian squadron is going to Toulon and thence to the Levant, when the French fleet already there will be reinforced. The khedive of Egypt, on a visit to the sultan of Turkey, will urge the latter to use his suzerain rights to send a contingent of Turkish troops to Cairo. Members of the diplomatic circle here blame the English policy in Egypt, which permits the khedive to openly operate against England.

An anti-Semitic publisher, Hoepfner, is about to issue a book, entitled "Die Judische Welt Herrschaft und das Reuter Bureau," tracing the career of the Reuter Telegram Company and its connection with the Wolff news bureau, with a view to proving that these two news-gathering concerns are linked together with the object of furthering the Jewish aim to control the world. The author of the book argues that the Berlin office of the Reuter Telegram Company is a source of danger to Germany and ought to be closed by the government.
